

MODELING and SIMULATION

PSI has a huge library of models and simulations that it has built for many different clients. As an engineering company, PSI maintains the right to design, build and deliver very similar models and simulations for all of its clients. This is what allows the company to create tailored models for clients in time frames and costs that would otherwise be prohibitive. For an overview of existing models and simulations, click on the following topics:

Simulations -definition and types

Simulations and Models

Home